1. [redacted] the Soviet General Staff established Security Zones in the following areas in March 1947: 50X1-HUM
 - a. Western Kazakh Republic (centered at Ural'sk, 51°10'N; 51°29'E).
 - b. Western Caucasus, the Crimea, South Ukraine, and Moldavia.
 - c. Kirghiz Republic, Kara-Kalpak, and Southern Kazakh.
2. Detached operational (sic) and tactical air force units were moved later to the first two zones mentioned and were allocated to the armies stationed in each zone.
3. Sites for launching V-2 rockets have been built in the regions of Odessa and the Crimea. The rockets are said to have a range of 700 kilometers, while others set up at Rostov have a range of 800 kilometers. 50X1-HUM
4. Radar stations [redacted] completed near Rostov-on-the-Don in June 1947 are located in the Verkhaya-Gnilovskaya area and at Nizhnaya-Gnilovskaya, an island at the mouth of the River Don. A military school for radar personnel is located in the Alexandrovka area.
5. The whole area of Biedniak, near Rostov, is prohibited to civilians. Certain military constructions were being erected in June 1947; [redacted] these were connected with radar. 50X1-HUM
